

Love It, Learn It, Live It, Lead It!

Choo Smith Supports Baltimore City Council President Jack Young At His Annual Toy Drive

By Karl Nelson/CSYE | December 10, 2013

Baltimore, MD. Tuesday, December 10, 2013, Baltimore City Council President Bernard C. “Jack” Young put on his 2nd Annual Toy Drive. The weather may have tried to permit this outreach opportunity, but President Young did not let that get in the way of giving back to the Baltimore community at City Hall.

Local humanitarian and Former Original Harlem Globetrotter, Charles “Choo” Smith, and Baltimore’s own Baltimore Raven, Gerard Sheppard, took the time to stop by and not only support their friend, President Young, but also give back to their community.

President Young is also a supporter of Choo’s vision to empower youth through his for-profit and non-profit organization, Choo Smith Enterprise/Youth Empowerment. President Young recommended Choo for the Keynote Speech at last month’s Maryland District AAU Awards Banquet, which is now on his YouTube channel, choosmith6. Choo’s inspiring message that day led to him being appointed the Education and Player Development Coordinator for AAU.

That beautiful Sunday afternoon in early November, Choo’s message was surrounded around the theme “Your Life Is Bigger Than You.” Selfless individuals like Jack Young, Choo Smith and Gerard Sheppard, live their lives by that message.

Love It, Learn It, Live It, Lead It!

Baltimore's recent weather that has people saying, "it's beginning to look a lot like Christmas," is one thing. But, here you have three positive figures in today's society from different platforms and walks of life, together to give back to their communities. Now that's what you call a major headliner for this great city of Baltimore.

###